Hearing your application for summary judgment

In order to determine whether a claim or a defence has a reasonable prospect of succeeding, the Court may determine any necessary question of fact or law.

The Court may:

- Dismiss the application
- Give such judgment as the nature of the case requires
- Where the application is made by the claimant, give the defendant leave to defend the claim or the part of the claim or
- Where the nature of the case permits, dispose of the proceedings finally in a summary manner.

What happens next?

If the claimant is successful with their application for summary judgment, they may then proceed to enforce the judgment.

See Fact Sheet:
No. 23 - Enforcing a Judgment

If the defendant's application has been granted then the case will then follow the normal process defended claims.
